Policy makers reach an agreement on a new international corporate tax framework

The OECD released the latest statement on the most fundamental reform to how international taxation is going to work. PwC's global tax policy team summarized the agreed minimum tax percentages, the profit re-allocation rules, the timeline and the latest on these developments. Please join my colleagues in their webcast on October 20 where our panelists and subject matter specialists will discuss the agreement, remaining work and implementation challenges, and what these mean for multinational enterprises, tax authorities and other stakeholders.
