

Regulatory Blog

By PwC Deutschland | 29.03.2022

Welcome to the Risk and Regulation Channel News ECB's SREP results 2021!

The European Central Bank (ECB) published the results of the 2021 Supervisory Review and Evaluation Process (SREP) cycle.

With the complete 2021 supervisory cycle, the ECB went back to normality, following the pragmatic approach adopted in 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

The Risk and Regulation channel features our international experts commenting on the key findings of the SREP and the implications for the banking sector.

Each episode will be dedicated to a special topic covering the details and impacts of the SREP 2021 results. Please navigate through them using the following blog posts (the links will be activated as soon as episodes have been published):

-
- Overview and Introduction to SREP
  - Details on internal governance and business models
  - Credit Risk

To further PwC Blogs

Keywords

Supervisory Review and Evaluation Process \(SREP\)

Contact

Martin Neisen

Frankfurt am Main

martin.neisen@pwc.com

Christoph Himmelmann

Frankfurt am Main

christoph.himmelmann@pwc.com